

Lubecore Technical Announcement

EPO Grease

Dear Customer

On June 15th, we sent a communication LCC2021-012 regarding a problem with the Lubecore blue EPO grease. Yesterday our grease supplier delivered a lubricating ester-based emulsion that dissolves the particles. We tested a small batch of emulsion treated grease and found that it effectively cleaned out the system. We are working towards blending emulsion treated grease starting tomorrow. We will be providing detailed service procedures with the treated grease as soon as we are able to blend it.

We also ask you to continue to quarantine your grease for one more day while we test grease delivered in pails which comes from a different batch of grease. When confirmation that this grease is acceptable for use, grease deliveries may continue.

Sincerely,

Jan Eisses
